Compliance training

Training is a key piece of the compliance jigsaw, if you operate in a regulated environment you wish to prove that your staff have the ability and training to perform their job competently. The regulatory requirements that govern industry are already stringent and they are growing tighter - the need to manage compliance training is crucial.

Integration

However in today's business world, the legislative and regulatory changes often occur at a remarkable speed and organisations need to be able to react accordingly and deliver the required training expediently. Our training delivery products can be integrated into the PathFinder system to deliver a total solution for an organisations compliance management or to deliver a complete certification programme.

“Our PathFinder system enables us to track mandatory training and automatically follows up on any DNAs (did not attend). It also provides a full audit trail of compliance training to support any regulatory reporting requirements. A key responsibility of our department is ensuring that all relevant professional registrations are kept up to date. This is a mammoth task, however the new system enables us to track registration renewals much more effectively.”

James Walters, Human Resources Manager, Hillingdon PCT
